the idea that we should have a war within the life-time of the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. McCook said during the first 100 years of its existence as a nation this country had sixteen years of war.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, said the condition of the sea coast defenses of the United States, in view of the prosperous financial condition of the country, was a disgrace in the extreme. No part of the seaboard could be successfuly defended even against a third-rate European power. The navy was not the best thing to meet danger with, and besides that an adequate navy would cost more than fortifications.

Mr. Ellis, of Louisiana, said that ships from any foreign power could enter the harbor of New York, in perfect safety and aleyy a contribution a thousand times greater than the sum asked by the chief of ordnance for the manufacture of heavy cannon. When a war should break out there would be no time to improve the defenses. A war might break out at any time. The Cuban cruisers were fring on American ships every two or three months. He hoped the incoming administration would listen to no apologies, but adopt a policy which would teach all nations, and especially Spain, that the American flag must be every where respected.

Mr. Reagan, of Texas, favored the strengthening the defenses for Galveston harbor.

Mr. King also alluded to the importance of strengthening the defenses of couttern ports, which might now be entered and destroyed by Spanish men of war. General destroyed by Spanish men of war. Gener

What the Congressional Committee Suggests.

Washington, December 15.—The subcommittee of the joint congressional committee on the Yorktown centennial celebration to-day agreed on the following programme of ceremonies:
Guests of the national government will assemble at Washington October 18, 1881, and be received there with proper ceremonies by the congressional committee; the committee will proceed, with the invited guests and such officials as may join them, to Yorktown, to arrive there on the morning of the 19th. Preparations will be made during the morning for landing of troops, and the oration and poem will be delivered at 2 o'clock p. m., with such accompanying services as the committee may determine. These services will consist of brief addresses of welcome by the governor of Virginia and others, an original ode, the laying of corner-stone, with an address by the president of the United States, who will be invited to preside on the occasion. The exercises will be interspersed with music by military bands present and with salutes by the artillery.
On the 20th there will be a grand parade of

On the 20th there will be a grand parade of all the military organizations present on the battle-field and a review by the president of the United States. The military exercises will conclude with a dress parade. A competent officer will be selected to take command of the parade. It is hoped that a naval review may be held on the 21st in adjacent waters. The governors of all the states will be invited to be present, with their military staffs and such military organizations as may wish to accompany them, and it is particularly desired that at least the thirteen original states should provide for as imposing a representation as possible by the presence of their civil officers and military organizations. The committee would suggest, without presuming to give any directions in the matter, that each state provide itself with such means of transportation as will afford accommodation while present at the celebration, and will enable them to take partin any local services which may take place. The details of the celebration will be arranged hereafter and with the list of invited guests will be published for general information.

Bradford, Pa., December 15.—A fire in Olean, to-night, destroyed the Buffalo house, Exchange restaurant and three other buildings, besides Merritt's block, occupied by several firms and six families. It is reported one woman and two children were burned. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the Buffalo house. Loss, $15,000; insurance, $10,000.

Halifax, December 15.—A Stellarton dispatch says Deputy Manager Douglass went down the hoisting shaft of Cage pit, early this morning, to see how ventilation had been progressing, and on reaching the bottom of the shaft, he observed indications of fire and on proceeding a little further he saw a flame. He immediately returned to the surface. Shortly afterwards, about 7:30, a slight explosion occurred, followed at intervals of fifteen minutes by two other blasts. There was very little noise, but large quantities of smoke poured forth from several different openings at the same time. No damage was done to the surface works, norwas anyone injured by the explosion. Gloom rests upon Stellarton. Hopes were entertained the cage-pit might be opened and a large number of men given employment, but the explosions of this morning destroyed the last hope. Gangs of men are filling up all the openings, so as to exclude air from the wing and thus try to extinguish the fires.

Chicago, December 15.—The News has a special from Independence, Mo., which says: "Last night Mrs. James Jones, wife of a wealthy farmer, attempted to fill a lighted lamp with kerosene, when both lamp and can exploded, causing the aimost instant death of her two children, aged respectively six years and six months. Mrs. Jones was burned so terribly that she died in a few hours."

—At a recent wedding in Bordeaux the groom was a convict, who were handcuffs at their own coes, as they now deliver it at their own coes, as they now deliver it at the nearest market, receive the yarns in bales at the end of every month, and pay 2½ or 3 cents a pound to the mills for spinning it, which will keep the latter in funds to pay operatives and other expenses.

Dwelling upon this, Mr. Cochrill presents some exceedingly interesting figures.

Bales of yarn, for domestic, weighing 450 pounds, are and will be worth from $80 to $90 a bale. In short, seed cotton enough to make 100 bales, when run through the Clement attachment in the cotton fields, is worth $9,000, and the planter has only paid $13.50 a bale on it, and deduct from that $3 a bale for gin.

—At a recent wedding in Bordeaux the groom was a convict, who wore handcuffs at the ceremony and had three policemen for his bett men. His mother and sistem were present, and the bride was allowed to talk to him alone just five minutes. Rather a short honeymoon.

—Mme. Christine Nilsson says that it amuses her to bear people in France speak of the dreadful habit that Americans have of conveying their food to their mouths with their knives. She says that she has been at table between a German prince and adjolomat who went through the same sleight of hand.

—In Germany, including the free cities, about eighty five per cent of the population have incomes under $300; in Berlim, Hamburg, and Bremen, 146 per cent have incomes from $300 up to $1,500, and one fifth of one per cent (that is t) say, about 3,000 persons in the three cities taken together) have incomes exceeding $15,000 per annum.

This does not give one a great idea of the wealth of Germany.

The moral that Mr. Cochrill adduces dominant party of the city is all that the from this is that with 10,000,000 spindles in the cotton fields we could spin 2,000,-000 of bales of cotton into yarn from seed cotton. This would require an average of 200 mills to each cotton state of 5,000 spindles; or 400 mills with 2,500 spindles ach. The latter size might be best to begin with, and enlarge after. Speaking for his own state, he says that Arkansas has twenty-five cotton counties. Then sixteen to the county would give the number of mills in the state, omitting fifty counties of the state. Suppose the planters begin and build houses for the spindles, only five a year, in three years they would have the number required for the county. These mills after put into operation would be permanent property, owned by the planters and spinners, of great value to them and the country.

The profits then should be appropriated to the extension and improvement of the mills and machinery, and erection of new mills, until the cotton states had mills to spin 3,500,000 bales, being the quantity we are compelled to gin and bale and compress and sell to go to Eu-

All this is something more than interesting. It is important. Our people must recognize how unprofitable it is to remain in the old ruts. If, as every thoughtful person must see, there is a necessity for political progress, how much greater-how much more pressing-is the necessity for industrial and economic Senators Hill and Brown.

Augusta Chronicle.

What Senators Brown and Hill mean by breaking up the solidity of the south and how they are going to effect it, remains to be seen. For our will aid the republicans in organizing the next will aid the republicans in organizing the next political factor, is to be strengthened by being distincerated passes our comprehene on. There is no objection for either of our senators to support whatever is wholesome in Mr. Garfield's administration, not for the sake of "patronage," but for the common weal. We know that Senator Brown is looked to for unlimited benefactions in the way of appropriations, but he is too shrewd to swap the devil for a witch. Senator Hill no doubt means that the south should divide upon purely business issues, such as honest more, the tariff, etc. So she would if such issues were honestly pre-cented. In discussing the silver bill, if we recollect aright, Mr. Hill disappointed the hopes of faired and enemy allike. One speech seemed to be in conflict with the other. How much of a irred-trace and how much of a protectionist. We do not see how, for example, the south can be belped by the enrichment of the few at the expense of the many, which happens just now by the operation of the prospers of the south in manufacture equal to the prohibitory tax upon cotton mill machinery.

We look to our senators to act with wisdom, discretion and judgment. That they will do so with great physical powers, and looks good

We look to our senators to act with wisdom, discretion and judgment. That they will do so is our carnest hope and belief. If we are to credit the fraphic and Tribune, they both look with disfavor upon the solidity of the south. The future will explain, if they do not now, how they propose to break that solidarity for the benefit of this section and without detriment to the democratic party.

There was a bizzard abroad in Cheyenne yesterday. There is no clearly stated definition of the word "bizzard," as it is not found in the dictionaries. It is a purely western invention. Bizzards came out since the dictionaries were built. But then a blizzard is an unspeakably mean thing. Oh! it is so mean. No one ever thinks of a bizzard without apologizing mentally for touching upon so buse a subject. What the coyote is to the hunter, the freighter, the cowby and the miner, the blizzard is a busyless, what the meteorology as does the skunk in zoology. The immortelles were red, indicative, no doubt, of Daniel's flery temperament. Looking to the Future.

Chatlanoga Times.

The meaning of the phrase "commercial politics" hath this extent, no greater. The men of the south who advocate this "new departure" by the democratic party of the section are as honest, as patriotic, as the fossils who stand aloof and cry aloud that the shopkeeper, manufacturer and "greasy mechanic" should not be allowed a fair voice in the conduct of the business of governing themselves and their country. Labor is free and thought and speech are untrammeled, thank God; and free speech and an independent press, have educated a race of young men in every southern state, who look to the future, while taking due pride in the achievements and glories of the past. They will not longer submit to have their political action dictated by the surviving members of a dead and half-forgotten system.

No precedents exist for such frequent communication between the queen and an ex-minister. Society gossip explains the present visit on literary grounds, the queen desiring to talk over "Endymion" with the author, Lord Beaconsfield having sent her the first copy, richly bound, with an autograph inscription.

ALL AROUND US. WHAT THE PEOPLE ARE DOING

EASTMAN, December 14—Superior court opened here yesterday by Judge Pate. A good deal of business to be disposed of which will probably require a session of two week.—Last right the down freight train ran into a gravel train at 127 mile post on the Macon and Brunswick rallroad. En gineer Gillom had his right leg broken in two places below the knee. A wood-passer was hurt to some extent. Four cars were considerably damsged. A misplaced switch was the cause of the accident. Mr. Rich ardson was conductor on the train which ran into the gravel train standing on the track.

GRIFFIN, December 15.—The election for city judge took place last night in the council chamber, resulting in the choice of Mr. Robert T. Daniel. This is certainly a splendid tribute to Mr. Daniel, but the honor falls upon worthy shoulders. He is decidedly the youngest judge infocorgia, but will make a good one. I congratulate him on this sudden elevation. Mr. Daniel is a rising young lawyer. I believe fame awaits him. The election of four policemen also occurred last night. Measar, James J. White, Mark Hancock, John Gloss and Charles R. Doe, were the successful ones. A fine quartette of guardians for our city.—Sheriff Bridges's house had a smail amount of insurance on it, but loses about $3.00.—Mrs. Kendrick, Miss Mollie Porter, Miss Estelle King, Miss Lizzie Mathews, J. D. Boyd, C. P. Beeks, S. H. Wilson, and a large number of other Griffin people left yesterday for Savannah.

ALBANY, December 14.—Yesterday Reuben Wagoner, Aleck Johnson and Jack Norwood, colored, were brought to town and lodged in jail under a commitment for stealing 2 bales of cotton from the railroad platform at Decker's station on the Arling ton extension. The cotton belonged to J. P. R. Denham, and was taken last Friday night and carried off and hid in an old field several miles distant. The boldness of this attempt rivals the raid made several nights ago on the gin-house of Mr. J. P. Fort, in Lee.—The Rev. H. R. Felder, the Methodist paster here for the past four years, has

Mr. Williams, of that place, will take charge of the church in Albany.—Calhoun superior court is in session this week.—Mr. Ed Mercer of Atlanta, having declined, the fair grounds have been leased to a gentleman from middle Georgia for three days' racing, some time during the present month.—The fare from Albany to Atlanta under the new passenger tariff, will be $6.30 instead of $9.15 as now.

Augusta, December 14.—The regular meeting of the Georgia railroad board of directors takes place here to day. The statement submitted by Carltoo Hillyer, auditor, shows an unprecedented increase in the gross earnings of the company, and a still greater increase in the tonnage of freight transported, and although the revenue has been seriously affected by the diminished rates of the state commissioners, the net shown is more than sufficient to pay the usual semi-annual dividend General E. P. Alexander is here, and, with the other directors, he seems gratified by the encouraging outlook thus far shown during the first year of the new management under Colonel Charles H. We are reliably informed that a party of Atlanta capitalists, and other moneyed men will vasit South river soon, with a view to on the numerous falls on that river. They will examine the river from Peach-stone Shoals down to Island Shoals, and will select the most suitable and best water power, for the factory. Let them come, say we. We have an abunance of water power in this section that ought to be utilized by the erection of factories and mills. We hope the company referred to will find a suitable location for a factory, and will build on it at once.

Mr. James Perry, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Newton county, died suddenly at his home about eight miles southeast of Covington, on last Friday morning, of dropsy of the heart. He had been complaining for some time past, but on Thursday night he was in his usual health. He retired, at his accustomed bed time, after eating his supper, at the same time remarking to his family that if the weather was suitable he was going to Covington in the morning. On Friday morning when he was called by his little child, he was found to be dead. He had died without a struggle, and was lying in his bed as peacefully as if asleep. He was in his 59th year, and leaves a wife and three children. He was one of the solid citizens of our county, and his sudden death has cast a gloom over the entire community. His family have the heartfelt sympathies of everyone in this their season of sorrow and sore begavement.

A boat, which left the island at the same time on Monday afternoon, returned Friday afternoon, and reported that the weather was very rough, and a strong wind was blowing on Monday night. It is supposed that the ill fated craft was unable to stand the squall and was capitzed, and the occupants were drowned Nothing has been seen or heard of them since. Brown had not succeeded in recovering the boat, which is held in the possession of Mr. John Reily, the stevedore being unable to properly identify himself. There seems little doubt, however, that he is the owner of the craft, and will prove his claim to-day and have it handed over to him.

Columbus Enquirer.

If Georgia is getting poorer annually, as some assert, she is certainly not able to build a new capitol. Only the rich can afford fine houses; those of moderate means cannot. Georgia is not wealthy, nor is she poverty stricken. If a structure is erected at all if should be one that will be an ornament to the prosperous Georgia of the future. The advocates of the Improvement say the present opera-house is hardly habitable. Every one who thinks so need not take a seat in it. Becoming a member of the legislature is not compulsory. Every county has a number of gentlemen—good ones, too—who would like to have a constituency and a place on the floor of that dilapidated edifice. None who make that an objection will be missed from the legislative halls. Abler people are willing and waiting. The rule of common sense suggests where a state has not ample means to erect a costly structure, is to await until she is and do the best she can under the circumstances. The people are unwilling to be taxed for keeping up sppearances. The present building can be made comfortable by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars. The voters are willing to stand this, but they will not if the expenditure of several hundred thousand is attempted for a new state house. It is very certain that none of the present menabers who favor it will ever take a seat in it Improve the present house; t the government; George S. Thomas, for the defense.

Dr. Harrison Pettis and Thornton Watkins, colored, had a hearing on the charge of conspiracy. Watkins resides on the lot adjoining J. D. Garrison. The ownership of the fence between is a mooted question. Garrison removes the fence claimfing that it is fence. Watkins calls on Dr. Pettis, from [whom he purchased the lot, to know about the fence and is informed that he is entitled to half the fence; that he [Pettis] paid half the expense of erecting it, and that it is on his iot. Watkins and Pettis call on Garrison one night for an explanation; the lie is passed and Pettis and Garrison collide. This is the basis of the charge.

Assistant United States District Attorney S. A. Darnell appeared for the government; Judge W. F. Wright for the detense.

Judge Smith will render his decision in the case at 12 o clock to-day.
